U.S. Research Project Possible Of Abandoned Area Lime Caves; Little Study Is Given for Shelter

Abandoned lime caves in the Kingston area could be due for study as a federal research project, a Washington source revealed this week.

Through the office of Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, a Kingston native, it was learned that "little study has been given to the possible use of caves for personnel protection" as a defense measure, but the research project is possible.

Asks About Shelters

Dr. Flemming forwarded the information in reply to a letter from a Freeman reporter as to whether shelters could be built in the area caves as well as in others elsewhere in the nation.

The letter was forwarded to Dean Snyder, a member of Dr. Flemming's staff, who forwarded a memorandum. Dr. Flemming also reported forwarding the letter to General John J. Maginnis, of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization for a more detailed answer.

Was Aide to Herter

Gen. Maginnis was formerly State Director of Civil Defense in Massachusetts when Secretary Herter was governor of that state, and he has charge of the shelter program for the director of OCDM.

The memorandum on the inquiry said:

"Very little study has been given to possible use of caves for personnel protection, although I understand that a research project on cave habitability for shelter use is now under consideration by OCDM. The problem with caves is to reclaim enough usable floor space without disproportionate expenditure of money.

Mines More Suitable

"A good deal of research has been done by the Corps of Engineers and through OCDM projects on use of mines. Compared with caves, mines have much more usable and adaptable floor space per cubic foot, and often have facilities already in place such as air intakes, electricity, etc.

"Aside from the possible study of caves near Kingston as a research project, the question of their adaption as large personnel shelters is more appropriate for state or local action. Since the federal government is not in the shelter building business, and has no grant-in-aid funds for this purpose."

Notes City, Rosendale Caves

The Freeman reporter's letter mentioned caves in both the Kingston and Rosendale areas. It noted that "Nevil Shute's novel, "On the Beach" pictured a nuclear war as hoplessly rampant, and some feel that even if one were only half as devastating, a major defense need is for preservation of enough of the world's population to perpetuate mankind, and not the majority of one nation or an area."

It was proposed that area caves could be equipped to preserve essential life and posses-

Loyal Forces Say Revolt In La Paz Under Control

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—A regiment of national police revolted against the government today. Loyal military forces claimed they had the situation under control, but mortar and small arms fire still echoed through the city.

The government radio station said the uprising had been staged by "a reactionary subversive" group. It ordered the People's Militia to seal off all streets leading from Avelino Aliaga Barracks, the rebel headquarters in the northern part of the capital.

Let None Escape, Order

The People's Militia, established in 1952 to supplement the armed forces, was ordered to let no rebels escape.

President Hernan Siles Zuazo and other leading officials went to an army headquarters in the southern sector of the city to direct activities for restoration of order.

Traced to Campaign

The reason for the rebellion was not immediately known, but presumably the leaders were not aligned with either of the two candidates now waging a tense campaign for the presidency.

This belief was bolstered by the fact that both candidates—Victor Paz Estenssoro and Walter Guevara—pledged support to President Siles and called upon their followers to help put down the rebellion.

The President has had trouble in the past with a third force in Bolivia's turbulent politics, the rightist Bolivian Socialist Falange.

Less than a year ago, a group of Falangists tried to seize the City Hall and a regimental barracks in an uprising against Siles. Other armed rebels simultaneously attacked the government radio station.

The army quickly put down the uprising at a cost of 22 dead and more than 50 wounded.

22 Killed Last Time

The President at that time charged wealthy Bolivians were trying to take advantage of labor troubles to try to throw out his government.

Bolivia's economy is based almost entirely on tin and keeps afloat only with U. S. aid.

There have been predictions that the presidential elections May 1 may spell trouble, even civil war.

Estenssoro, president from 1952 to 1956, is the founder of Bolivia's major political party, the Nationalist Revolutionary Movement.

Guevara, foreign minister in Siles' cabinet, split off from Estenssoro's movement six months ago and organized his own wing of the party.

Both wings are extremely leftist and not particularly friendly toward the United States.

Appellate Ruling

Cleric, Convicted 3 Times, Not in Double Jeopardy

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A former clergyman convicted three times of killing his wife was not placed in double jeopardy an appeals court says.

The State Supreme Court's Appellate Division said Friday no double jeopardy was involved because George P. Hetenyi, 51, was convicted of second-degree murder, a charge of which he never was acquitted.

Other Decisions

The division's third department upheld a lower court's refusal to grant Hetenyi freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

In other decisions, the court:

1. Upheld the two-month suspension of a Binghamton City Hospital radiologist.

2. Reversed a $140,000 award to a polio victim who claimed that Army physicians were negligent in treating him.

Hetenyi, now confined to Dannemora State Hospital, is serving 40 years to life for the murder of his wife 11 years ago near Rochester.

The former Episcopal supply minister, tried for first-degree murder, was convicted of second-degree murder in Monroe County Court in January 1950. He appealed that conviction but, in May 1950, was found guilty of first-de-

Red Cross Fund $11,667 to Date

A total of $11,667.86 has been reported collected at the half-way mark in the 1960 Ulster County Red Cross fund campaign to raise $34,000, it was announced today by James D. Hood, county chairman.

The advanced gifts total of $8,450.16 has achieved more than half its quota in the drive which officially started March 1.

Saugerties Leads

Saugerties is leading among the townships with $697.85 against a $1,900 quota.

In the City of Kingston, the First Ward leads with $324 against a quota of $425.

The total receipts from the county is $2,054 on a quota of $13,300, and city wards have collected $1,163.70 against a quota of $4,700.

City ward collections are as follows:

Second, $98.50; Third, $30.75; Fourth, $15; Eighth, $128.75; Ninth, $97; 10th, $50; 11th, $192;

2-Lane Orange Span Adequate, BA Leader Avers

HUDSON, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's proposal that the Newburgh-Beacon bridge be built with two lanes instead of four was endorsed today by John L. Edwards, Republican chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority.

John Stillman, a Democratic member of the authority and former chairman, had held it would be short-sighted to limit the bridge to two lanes.

Edwards issued a statement saying two lanes would be adequate to handle expected traffic for at least the next 25 years. He predicted construction could start this fall and that the bridge would be open to traffic by January 1964.

He said it was expected the toll would be 50 cents for single trips and 18 cents for commuters. The fare on the present Newburgh-Beacon ferry service across the Hudson River is 75 cents.

The predicted cost of the two-lane structure is 20 million dollars, to be paid by the state. Under the four-lane plan, the cost would have been an estimated 40 million dollars, with the federal government bearing a share of the expense.

Close Rules Out Draft As Sheriff

Definitely Out, Word to Freeman

"I am definitely out," Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close told The Freeman Friday, when asked about reports that he might accept the Republican endorsement through a "draft Close movement."

Reports have been frequent since the sheriff announced several months ago that he would retire from office at the end of his present term, next December.

Quinlan Endorsed

The advisory committee of the Dutchess County Republican Committee at a meeting earlier this week, voted overwhelmingly to recommend to the 222 county committee members the endorsement next month of former Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan. Brochures submitted to the committee by several applicants were studied thoroughly before the decision was made.

A committee spokesman said the decision of the advisory group does not bind the county committee members. Several weeks ago Close revoked the the appointment of Quinlan, who had specialized in criminal investigation for many years.

Close Promises Statement

Close said Friday that he will have "plenty to say at a later date "about the advisory committee finding that the sheriff

Dutchess Man Is Given 11 Months In Highway Death

A 49-year-old Rhinebeck kitchen worker, who was convicted by a Dutchess County trial jury of criminal negligence resulting in a highway death last December was sentenced to 11 months and 27 days in jail on Friday.

County Judge John R. Schwartz told the defendant, Joseph C. Limoges that he could not justify treating him any differently than William Francis Brown, 26, formerly of Amenia, who was sentenced to 11 months and 27 days recently. Brown was convicted of criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle resulting in the deaths of two Ulster County residents.

Secretary Orders Strongest Protest Over Jailing Bishop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will make the "strongest possible protest" to Red China for giving a 20-year prison sentence to an ailing 68-year-old American prelate, Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Friday "I find it difficult to emphasize sufficiently the revulsion that I, personally, and the U.S. government feel today.

Beam Gets Orders

"I am instructing our ambassador at Warsaw to lodge the strongest possible protest with the representative of the Chinese Communist regime at their next meeting Tuesday, March 22."

The United States does not recognize Red China and has no diplomatic relations with the country. However for the past 18 months Ambassador Jacob D. Beam at Warsaw and the Red Chinese ambassador there, Wang Ping-nan, have been maintaining formal contact. One purpose of the periodic talks is to try to obtain the release of a handful of American prisoners in Red China.

CHRISTIAN A. HERTER

Peiping radio said Friday that Bishop Walsh admitted plotting to overthrow the Communist government. The prelate had been in China since 1948, and remained at his Shanghai post after the Communists took over the next year. He refused an offer to return home in 1955.

Peiping radio also accused Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York of joining Walsh in subversive activities against Red China.

In New York Cardinal Spellman said "no one will take seriously the absurd charges of 'espionage' against Bishop Walsh," which he said followed "a cruel pattern of Communist persecution."

Doubts Survival

The cardinal said Bishop Walsh would not survive the 20-year sentence. As to the charge that he also was linked with espionage, Cardinal Spellman said "I brought Bishop Walsh with me from the United States to China in 1948. I have never seen nor heard from him since we parted in Tsingtao."

Police Will Quiz Trucker In Slaying of Socialites

OTTAWA, Ill (AP) — Police planned today to question a truck driver in the slaying of three socialites whose holiday from housework ended in a canyon at Starved Rock State Park.

State Police Supt. William Morris said he wanted to question the driver because a truck similar to his was reported seen by three persons Monday afternoon in a parking lot across the road from a trail leading into St. Louis Canyon.

Twine Like That Used

It was in a shallow cave in the canyon that the bodies of the three matrons—showing signs of having been raped—were found Wednesday.

A search for them began after their husbands became alarmed.

Morris said the truck driver's vehicle contained twine like that used to bind the wrists of two of the victims. The twine found in the truck was flown to the State Police laboratory in Springfield for comparison with the twine tied around the women's wrists.

Twine found in the kitchen of the park lodge was also sent to the crime lab.

Morris said the truck driver insisted his truck was not in the park Monday but had been there Saturday when he had taken his children for a hike into the canyon.

Disappeared Monday

The women, who disappeared Monday shortly after checking into the lodge, were wives of Chi-

Unanimous Choice

VFW Will Honor Kalish April 30 As Top Citizen

Commander George Schatzel of Joyce-Schirick Post, No. 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, today announced that Richard M. Kalish of 73 Highland Avenue, had been selected to receive the VFW Annual Citizenship Award.

The dinner at which Kalish will receive this coveted award will be held Saturday, April 30, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Tickets may be procured from any member of the local VFW or by calling the Post Home on Delaware Avenue. The speaker and other arrangements will be announced, Commander Schatzel said.

Advocatee of College

Kalish was the unanimous choice of the committee, Commander Schatzel said. He was selected because of his numerous civic activities. Kalish has been very active in many charitable organizations and is working ceaselessly to have Kingston and Ulster County provided with a Community College.

Kalish is president of the board of trustees of the Kingston Hospital. He is co-owner of Kingston Laundry, Inc., and Tops Drive-In Cleaners. He has served on the hospital board since 1948 with the exception of the intervals required by the by-laws limit. He was chairman of the Kingston Hospital campaign of 1957, and has headed many other local fund drives, including the new Temple Emanuel building fund in 1956 and the Kingston Area Community Chest drive in 1958. The first drive for Cerebral Palsy in Kingston was also headed by Kalish.

Offer to Sign Honor Pact, Vital Step: Wadsworth

Proposal Would Bar Big Tests

No Underground Blasts, Reds Ask

GENEVA (AP) — Soviet delegates today accepted conditionally President Eisenhower's plan for a partial nuclear-test ban.

They offered to sign an honor system treaty with the United States and Britain immediately to bar big tests — oceanic, atmospheric or underground—if the two Western powers join the Soviet Union in a promise to refrain indefinitely from conducting small underground blasts.

Provides No Control

Under the Soviet proposal there would be no international control to insure compliance with the moratorium.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin told a special meeting of the long deadlocked Big Three nuclear conference that the moratorium would be accompanied by a joint three-power scientific study to deal with the problem of small underground blasts. This is the sort of explosions the United States maintains cannot be policed with existing detection techniques.

Two Challenge Blame

Tsarapkin blamed the United States for the conference's inability to conclude a comprehensive treaty. U. S. Ambassador James L. Wadsworth challenged him on this ground.

But both Wadsworth and British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore characterized Tsarapkin's proposal as an important statement.

"There can be no doubt of this," Wadsworth said.

Tsarapkin's move came three days after the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission had announced plans for Operation Gnome, the explosion of a nuclear device for peaceful scientific purposes planned in New Mexico next January.

The United States has repeatedly told the Soviets during these 16-month-old negotiations it will accept no obligation to stop testing which cannot be policed.

The Soviet proposal was regarded as important.

Marks Turning Point

Tsarapkin's proposal was made at the 188th meeting of the marathon conference and the first weekend meeting for nearly a year. It marked the turning point in long deadlocked discussion of un-

Williams Retires, Custodian Since '34 At Sports Hall

After serving the city as custodian of the Municipal Auditorium the last 26 years, Richard Williams, of 42 First Avenue, one of the oldtime baseball players, is retiring "to take a good rest."

During the many years of service at the auditorium Williams came in personal contact with the numerous outstanding professional basketball stars including Benny Borgman, Phil Raban, Carl Husta and scores of others.

Pitched for Colonials

"I knew them all and liked them," Williams told The Freeman.

"Williams pitched the first game played by the former Kingston Colonial Baseball club against Newburgh. Asked who won the game, Williams replied, "we did naturally. The Colonials were the best ball club anywhere around. Williams played outstanding baseball with the team many years.

The retiring custodian recalled many old timers in baseball including incumbent Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick. Williams said he played baseball "all around the area."

1950 Fall Floods Continue to Provoke Controversy

$2,500,000 in Lawsuits Still Pending Decade After Seeding of Clouds in Area

BY CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
Freeman Staff Writer

A decade after one of this world's great experiments with the vicissitudes of nature—the big year of the rainmaker in the Catskills—lawsuits resulting from it are still pending, it was learned today.

Not since Noah launched the ark, could more attention been given anywhere to rain or the lack of it. Reports on the rainmaker lasted through and beyond that year of 1950, and judging from recent accounts, we'll still hear more of repercussions.

Some After Cloud Work

Some $2,500,000 in lawsuits against the city of New York are still to be dealt with, it was learned today, and some of these were filed long after the rainmaker flushed the clouds of alleged flood-making rains.

This is the first of a series of articles dealing with rainmaking attempts as conducted by Dr. Wallace E. Howell, Harvard climatologist, who was hired by New York City to make replenishing rains for badly depleted water supplies in the Ashokan and other reservoirs after an extended drouth. They will deal with general area reaction, some of which resulted in the lawsuits.

A check with New York City's law department today indicated that many of the suits, including one filed by the County of Ulster are still pending. Others were filed by area farmers, resort owners and various individuals as the result of fall floods in 1950, which as the result of nature, or otherwise, followed Dr. Howell's seeding of the clouds.

Hints of Dr. Howell's venture came first in 1949, and he remained in the news on a nationwide and worldwide basis through 1950.

The Freeman on Feb. 20, 1950 ran a front-page editorial noting that "Area Residents Are Concerned" and proposing that New York could conserve water through extensive use of meters.

Albany Also Concerned

Albany, considerably removed from the involved area, became concerned early in 1950, and other reports from many communities, in and out of the area, recorded protest.

On March 3, 1950, Dr. Howell reported that it would take from six months to a year to make rain for New oYrk, and among the first on record in the county, strongly opposing the great experiment was the Mt. Tremper Grange, which reported its protest on March 6.

By March 15 news reports said that scientists had started "organizing a rainmaker's platoon to operate near Slide Mountain," the Catskill's tallest peak.

Planned Airborne Picket

Two days later it was reported that Dr. Howell had began studies in the Woodstock area, and immediately after that report the most novel idea in picketing was reported. The Freeman reported that the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters planned an "airborne picket line against the rainmaker."

Before the end of March, Dr. Howell reported that the "Catskill Mountains were rejected as the rainmaker's headquarters," but he, nevertheless, said experiments were due to start in the Downsville area.

The whole show resulted from the most serious drouth since New York City began using water from the Ashokan reservoir system in 1913. New York was criticized for lack of fulfilment of projected water works plans, and among emergency proposals was temporary use of Hudson River water.

Poughkeepsie opposed proposed tapping of the Hudson between that city and Beacon, and other protests appeared to lack valid explanation.

Water was so low in the Ashokan, when New York was prompted to emergency action, that tracts of land, not seen since first covered by water, were in open view exposing foundations of razed buildings in the Old West Hurley and Ashokan areas.

Other Projects Follow

Not too long after the Ashokan reservoir system, with its aqueduct to the metropolitan area was put into service, an auxiliary reservoir was built at Gilboa in Schoharie County, and some 20 years ago the Lackawack-Neversink project began. No sooner had the latter been completed when the Downsville-Pepacton project started, and since the big drouth all are in service. Another project, tapping the west branch of the Delaware is under way at Cannonsville.

The system of reservoirs is connected by aqeducts and tunnels, such as the Shandaken tunnel, one of the earliest, connecting the Gilboa and Ashokan systems. Others connect the Neversink-Lackawack reservoirs and Downsville-Pepacton.

Led to Howell's Employment

Not too long before the drouth, which led to the 1950 emergency action, a heavily populated section of Brooklyn, which had received its water from Long Island wells, gained water from the city's mountain reservoir system, and this change undoubtedly contributed to the water shortage which led to the hiring of Dr. Howell.

Since those dry months New York appears to be beyond danger of a repeated hampering shortage, and if the city continues extending its reservoir system upstate, it will some day be at least in the finger lake country.

Further Sitdowns May Come in Florida City

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Law enforcement authorities were alerted today for further sitdown demonstrations in racially tense Tallahassee, Fla., while eating facilities at a Virginia store were integrated for the first time—on a standup basis.

Memphis, Tenn., reported its initial snack counter sitdown Friday. There were demonstrations in Georgia, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, picketing in North Carolina and court action in South Carolina and Florida.

Two Oppose Protests

A Tallahassee Negro leader, the Rev. C. A. Hunter, announced plans for another sitdown in the Florida capital, scene of demonstrations the past five Saturdays and a near riot a week ago.

But the heads of two state universities, white Florida State and Negro Florida A. & M., urged their students to refrain from further mass protests against segregated eating places.

At St. Augustine, Fla., city officials and businessmen set up a bi-racial committee to discuss human relations in line with President Eisenhower's recent recommendation. The decision followed a brief outbreak of violence during a lunch counter sitdown Thursday.

The vertical integration occurred at a Suffolk, Va., variety store lunch counter which was opened to all comers—Negroes and white persons—after all the stools were removed. Crowds of Negroes jammed the counter. The store closed two weeks ago after a series of sitdown protests.

12 Refused Service

Twelve Negro youths sat down at a snack counter for whites in a Memphis, Tenn., variety store but were refused service. The store closed and the youths left before police arrived.

Groups of Negro students staged sitdowns at a variety store in Norfolk, Va., and at two variety stores in Bluefield, W.Va. Negro high school pupils picketed two downtown stores in New Bern, N.C., but did not enter. Had they done so there might have been trouble. Police said the lunch counter seats were occupied by white youths apparently waiting for the Negroes to show up.

Five Negroes were arrested at a downtown Savannah, Ga., department store when they refused to leave a restaurant. Three Negroes were arrested at the same store earlier this week.

At Baltimore, a Negro college student and the white manager of a restaurant were arrested on complaints growing out of a sitdown demonstration by about 100 Negroes. The restaurant then closed for the day.

15 Plead Guilty

Fifteen Negro college students pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct charges at Columbia, S.C. They admitted taking part in a stock-swinging rampage at a white drive-in restaurant March 5 during which two parked cars were battered by sticks and bricks and a white woman injured by broken glass.

Trial of 15 of the 388 Negro students arrested during an anti-segregation parade Tuesday began in Orangeburg, S. C. They were charged with breach of the peace. State prosecutors said they plan to try the others in groups of 15.

At Tallahassee, 11 Negroes were convicted of disturbing the peace in connection with a Feb. 20 sitdown. Eight went to jail rather than pay $300 fines.

Seek to Unite Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Vice President-elect Lee Ki-poong said today South Koreans are determined to unite Korea again, even if they have to use force against the Communist North.

"We would rather die by marching north than live this way," the 63-year-old Lee told newsmen.

"Unification by force is not an ideal goal at all," he admitted, "but the present divided situation is so miserable that to escape from our misery, we think of unification by force."

Cleric, Convicted

gree murder at a second trial, and sentenced to death.

Claimed Violations

Hetenyi, who had lived in Amherst, again won reversal on appeal. He was tried a third time and was convicted of second-degree murder for a second time. This conviction was upheld on appeal.

Hetenyi claimed that he was placed in double jeopardy, in violation of the federal and state constitutions, because he was tried more than once on the same charge—first-degree murder.

The Appellate Division said that, even if double jeopardy existed, Hetenyi had forfeited his right to this defense by failing to raise it at his second and third trials.

Dr. Elmer G. St. John, the radiologist, was suspended by the Binghamton City Hospital board after the death of a woman cancer patient who had suffered radiation burns from an overdose of X-rays.

After a hearing, hospital administrator Harold G. Koach upheld charges that Dr. St. John, the chief radiologist, and his assistant had participated in falsifying records of the treatment.

The Appellate Court said it found nothing to "warrant the interference of this court with the determination of the degree of discipline imposed."

Reinstated Last July

Dr. St. John was reinstated by the hospital staff last July. He sought to recover $2,333 in back pay during his suspension.

The State Court of Claims had awarded $140,000 to William J. Cunningham, a member of the National Guard Medical Corps., who was taken ill at Camp Drum in July 1953.

He was taken to the post dispensary, transferred to the post hospital, then to an evacuation hospital and later to the Sampson Air Force Base Hospital, where his illness was diagnosed as polio.

The Appellate Division, which said it could "find no evidence of negligence," reversed the award.

Cavaliers Seek

practicing to perfection the routines the Cavaliers would present in competition.

$8,000 Needed for Trip

The corps captain said the problem of raising necessary funds to pay for the trip to Miami and other expenses involved is of great importance. The Colonial Cavaliers are a non-profit organization and face the necessity of raising an estimated $8,000 to finance the trip.

Mayor Radel indicated that the city administration realizes the great favorable publicity Kingston would receive from such a venture, especially if the Cavaliers finished the competition among the winners.

City Ready to Help: Mayor

"The yearly activities of the Cavaliers are very helpful in stimulating youth activities through the junior corps," the mayor said. "Based on these principals, the city stands ready to aid the Cavaliers in their promotions to send 65 members to Florida."

Amarello said he already has solicited aid from several American Legion posts, including Kingston Post 150 and he believes that with general support from the public and from business houses and industries in the community, they will realize their goal.

"You will remember the annual drum corps competition held at Dietz Stadium which is sponsored and operated locally by the Colonial Cavaliers as one of their outstanding major annual functions," Mayor Radel said. "The corps is very confident that if they have the opportunity they can place high on the list of successful competitors, and make the city proud of its representation."

Cleveland, Ohio, was named for Moses Cleaveland.

derground controls though there was no assurance the proposal would be acceptable to the two Western powers.

Tsarapkin said the voluntary moratorium should remain in force while the three powers conduct a joint research program to improve detection techniques to such a point that a control system could be expanded to cover all possible tests.

The Western delegations have themselves suggested such a research program — including pilot nuclear tests — but did not couple this with any proposal for a voluntary moratorium.

British officials have privately hinted that a partial treaty with a simultaneous moratorium might be a way out of deadlock but the suggestion hitherto did not win favor with the United States or with the Soviet Union.

Tsarapkin's offer thus might place the British delegation in an embarrassing position in the talks if the moratorium proves unacceptable to the United States. The British government has carefully sought to avoid any real or apparent difference with the United States ever since the negotiations started Oct. 31, 1958.

A major Soviet move now would fall in line with the Communist bloc's position at the week-old 10-nation disarmament conference also being held in Geneva. The Soviet-led bloc, obviously seeking to blame the West in advance for any failure to end the arms race, have called repeatedly for a nuclear test ban agreement as a starting point for a wider disarmament treaty.

YMCA Board Continues Talks On Expansion

Expansion plans for Kingston YMCA and a progress report of the building committee was heard at the Thursday night meeting of the board of directors in the YMCA building.

John Shults, chairman of the building planning committee gave a report on the progress to date. The meeting opened with devotions by General Secretary Louis H. Schafer. Two Gloversville YMCA officials were guest speakers, Past Board President Wesley Frank and General Secretary Allan M. Finkle.

The upstate YMCA added a new addition to its existing building. The Gloversville structure consists of a complete youth division (boys and girls), locker rooms with showers, a large gymnasium that can be made into two gym classes for the grammar school age youth. A swimming pool, club rooms and a rumpus room.

Frank spoke on the financial campaign aspect and the breakdown of the many and varied contributions. Finkle told of the added use of the new structure in conjunction with the renovated old structure. The building now has programs for women and girls as well as for boys and men. Gloversville YMCA is the main meeting place for all ages and all groups in Gloversville, he said.

The membership has more than tripled and is still growing. There are between 400 and 500 boys and girls that use the YMCA facilities on Saturday. This does not include the many young men, business men and women.

Both speakers said if Kingston YMCA had additional room, especially in the physical department and swimming pool along with modern facilities, the staff, the board and volunteers could do a much better job than at present.

The local committee's plans will have to be approved by the board and a complete announcement will be made at a date in the near future.

George J. Silkworth, chairman of the Day Camp committee, told of the many projects of development that are expected to be started this spring. He said the Day Camp committee will hold a meeting Tuesday and map plans of work projects to be undertaken at the Shokan Day Camp site.

Also attending the meeting were: Arthur W. Patterson, president; John Haulenbeek, treasurer; Addison Jones, Clifford Smith, Herbert DeKay, Dr. Gilbert Hoppenstadt, Clifford Henze, Robert Murray Jr., Roger Mabie, Henry Millonig, H. Irvin Etchells, Frederick H. Stang, Clarence Buddenhagen, Joseph Benjamin and Louis H. Schafer, General Secretary, Chester A. Baltz Sr.

2 Hurt Slightly As Plane Dives To Avoid Jets

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn (AP)—A passenger and stewardess suffered minor injuries Friday night when a Northwest Airlines stratocruiser carrying 73 made a sharp dive the pilot said was necessary to avoid two military jets flying in formation over Lansing, Mich.

"It was a real dive and it was very obvious the pilot was trying to avoid something," said Arthur W. Smith, Minneapolis, a passenger.

But a military spokesman in Michigan denied the airliner had been endangered.

The airline said the plane, Flight 7 from New York, was flying at 16,000 feet when William Smith, the pilot, made the diving right turn of about 300 feet to miss two military jets.

Margaret Higgins, a passenger, and stewardess Sherry Carter, both of Minneapolis, suffered neck injuries. The plane carried 67 passengers, a crew of six.

Census Takers To Train Mar. 28-30

Census takers who will visit every dwelling unit in the area during the 1960 census of population and housing which starts April 1, will participate in three training sessions next week, District Supervisor R. Frank Vacca, Poughkeepsie, announced today.

The training sessions, to be conducted by the crew leaders, will be held March 28, 29, and 30. Each census taker will receive a total of approximately nine hours of instruction. Emphasis will be placed on the importance of a systematic, thorough canvass of every dwelling unit during the census to insure a complete count. Class room training will cover proper manner of asking questions, use of the census questionnaire, census definitions, and map reading.

Map reading is an important censnus-taking technique since, without maps, defining the limits of each district to which a census taker is assigned, the job would be a welter of confusion, Vacca said.

About 250,000 maps have been prepared for the 1960 census. This provides an individual map for each of the 250,000 districts into which the country has been divided for the census. Every census taker will be furnished with a map of his district. As they make their rounds, census takers will be required to canvass every street and road and visit every housing unit within the boundaries of their assignments shown on these maps.

Fiesta Day Air Awaits Return Of the Swallows

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP)—This is the day of days at this sleepy mission hamlet celebrated in song and story for a charming legend of returning swallows.

For this is St. Joseph's Day—traditional time for the mission's cliff swallows to return from their winter haunts in South America.

The village put on its best fiesta face to welcome the birds. Store owners decorated their windows and shops. Strolling bands strummed gay Mexican tunes. Ranchers polished silver-decorated saddles for the annual mounted parade. A grey-haired gardener took special pains raking the grounds of the crumbling mission.

For the day-long festivities, a crowd of 10,000 was expected. And villagers were certain the swallows wouldn't disappoint the throng.

The 184-year legend of the swallows goes back to the founding of the mission by a wandering Franciscan padre named Junipero Serra—the same year that across the country a group of patriots were drafting the Declaration of Independence.

The swallows build their nests and hatch their young in the ancient adobe of the mission. Then in October—traditionally on St. John's Day (the 23rd)—they wing off for another sunny winter south of the border.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Dunlop Tire & Rubber Corp has charted a 5½-million-dollar expansion program designed to increase its auto tire output here 40 per cent.

The five-year program is expected to enlarge the company's 1,950-man work force here considerably.

President J. Michael Billane said Friday that construction next month on a one million dollar warehouse will signal the start of the program.

Confident of Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of the voting referee plan expressed confidence today the House will approve it next week, even though a major attempt to narrow its terms was beaten by only three votes Friday.

The issue Friday was whether the plan for referees to help Negroes and others fight efforts to keep them from voting should apply to all elections, including state and local tests, or only to those for federal officers. The vote to keep the broad plan intact was 137-134.

Upstate Man Is Seized for Hoax On Plane Bomb

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI announced today it had arrested a man who told an Eastern Airlines employe that a passenger had a bomb on a plane bound for Washington and New Orleans.

The plane landed without incident at Washington. The FBI said the man was unable to furnish any logical explanation for the hoax.

He was identified as Peter Wilson Askew, 25, of Skaneateles, N. Y.

The FBI said he approached an Eastern Airlines employe at Idlewild Airport at 12:30 a. m. and said a passenger on Flight 545 had a bomb on the plane. The craft had taken off 15 minutes earlier.

It is a violation of federal law to make a false report of a bomb aboard an aircraft. Penalties are set at a maximum fine of $1,000 or a year's imprisonment or both on conviction.

Anti-Catholic Mail Is Received In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Anti-Catholic literature has cropped up in Wisconsin where Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) are battling for the state's Democratic National Convention delegates.

Humphrey's campaign headquarters was quick Friday to repudiate the hate mail sent in from Minnesota.

An aide of Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, said he knew nothing of the literature.

Gene Foley, executive secretary of the Humphrey-for-president campaign in Wisconsin, said he asked the Post Office Department to trace the source of the mail after it had been called to his attention that the literature was being received in many places in Wisconsin.

The literature attacks Catholic churches and priests.

It was reported to have been mailed from Hutchinson, Minn. Postmaster H.E. Jensen of Hutchinson said Friday night he thinks the mail in question had been dropped into a postal box in front of his post office one day last week.

Jensen estimated that about 5,000 letters had been sent, first class, and that he did not know who mailed them.

Two Admit Slaying Of Postal Checkers

CHICAGO (AP) — A scrawled license number on a bloodied paper and a set of car keys led police to two men Friday night who they say admitted the killing of two postal investigators who had seized them for mail theft.

The man who police said wielded the gun, George Wilson, 37, Negro, claimed he was high on dope and didn't know he had killed anyone.

"I didn't know I did it. I just felt good," he said. He related how one of his companions told him, "Shoot, shoot, shoot, squeeze and let's keep on squeezing."

Also arrested and held without charge was William Perkins, 36. A third man still at large, was Alan (Nick) Goulson, 32. Both are Negro also.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Paula Mallard has a leading role in the Capitol Hill High School presentation of "The Happiest Millionaire" tonight but she'll be watching more than her lines.

But she says she is friendly with the 3- and 4-foot reptiles now and the show will go on with the alligators having freedom of their jaws.

Think It Through

E. F. HUTTON

WATCH OUT!

The day may not be far off when the "free world" countries will be a minority in the Dis-United Nations. What then?

There are now 82 nations in the U.N., each with one vote. A majority is 43. When a two-thirds vote is necessary, 28 can prevent action.

When the U.N. was set up, the "free world" had control, subject only to a veto in the Security Council. But in the past five years, 23 new nations have joined, some with no more people than Washington, D. C. But each has the same voting power as our 175,000,000 people.

E. F. Hutton

Nationalism is sweeping Africa—Togoland, Belgian Congo, Cameroons, Nigeria and Somaliland. Others yet unborn will soon be clamoring for admittance.

Will they be friends or foes? For the time being, it is more likely that most of them will be neutralists, waiting to see which way the wind blows, using—or withholding—their vote to pry more money out of us, or the Soviets—or both. They have politicians, too!

Cuba was once counted on our side. If France loses De Gaulle, who can count on her?

If the Reds get a few more tribes to break loose in Africa and Asia, and join the U.N.,—Algeria, as an example,—they may soon have us nailed to the mast.

Under these circumstances, are we fools enough to surrender still more of our sovereignty to the U.N.?

Local 4-H Leaders Attend Clothing Training Session

The local 4-H leaders attended a clothing judging training session at the 4-H Club office, 74 John Street, this week.

Miss Frances Young, clothing specialist from Cornell discussed the projects "Sew a Fine Seam" and "Patterns for Success." These projects are good for older 4-H girls who have had previous experience in sewing.

It was pointed out that there is no one way in which an article should be made. A judge looks at a garment to see if the construction is done well, if color combinations are suitable, if it has a good over-all appearance, among other things. The clothing experience and age of a girl are considered by a judge when determining the ribbon to be awarded an individual.

Present were: Mrs. Richard Pagel, Mrs. Louis McGuffy, Mrs. Lucy Stoddard, and Miss Ingrid Wustrau, Accord; Mrs. Marie Carro, Mrs. Anna Kaufman, Mrs. Vernon Goetchius and Mrs. Arthur Britt of Hurley; Mrs. Martha Wodischeck and Mrs. Maryan Soltys of Flatbush; Mrs. George Larsen, Mrs. William Larsen, Mrs. Oscar Larsen, Mrs. W. Different Approach

NEW YORK (AP—The player comes ahead of the writer in the Broadway plans of producer Anna Sosenko. Having obtained the stage rights to "Age Cannot Wither," a book about the romance of actress Eleonara Duse and Gabriele D'Annunzio, Miss Sosenko is first seeking her feminine lead. After that she will choose an adapter. Her idea is that knowing who will play the role should help the playwright create his script.

THE DEFENSE DOLLAR

A walloping amount is spent annually on public education in the United States. But the Department of Defense spends almost twice as much—more than twice as much as total U.S. net farm income—on military supplies and equipment. Some 24 billion dollars goes for those things each year, and in addition the defense payroll totals about 11 billion dollars.

These and a number of other interesting facts about Defense Department spending are brought into focus in a report made for the joint economic committee of Congress. One's attention is held, as citizen and taxpayer, by the astronomical number of dollars poured out to support the national defense establishment. Even more fascinating, in a way, is the extent to which lack of coordination in buying flushes huge sums down the drain.

Americans do a lot of groaning, and rightly, about the seven billions in agricultural surpluses on which the government is paying storage costs. But nearly four times that much surplus (in book value) is piled up for disposition by the armed forces. Even when the book value is reduced to actual sales value, the total is staggering. And the taxpayer really takes a beating when the stuff is finally sold—at an average return of less than two cents on the dollar.

Something could be done about this. There could be a central procurement office for the armed forces. That would not guarantee the elimination of waste, but it could reduce it sharply. The present system of procurement is clearly not making the most of the nation's defense dollar.

Peeved at criticism, Nehru said parliament could choose a new premier if they saw fit. Wouldn't he be embarrassed if they happened to like the suggestion?

SOCIETY LOSES, TOO

One of the big state universities has been going through the painful, recurrent process of increasing its tuition. And once again, inevitably, comment has been spiced with the view that "those who benefit from higher education" certainly should be willing to pay a bigger share of the cost.

In the context, "those who benefit from higher education" can be taken to mean the students. Yet a good case can be made for the argument that the students is by no means the only, and in some cases not even the principal, beneficiary.

By securing a higher education the student increases his potential earning power, granted. But society also benefits in great measure by having a large number of its citizens well schooled for teaching, science and the professions. The value of such persons is incalculable. Even if the matter were held to strictly monetary terms, it probably could be shown that the higher income taxes cumulatively paid by graduates of state universities more than pay the state's share of their tuition cost.

One should go slow, therefore, in arguing that the student should not balk at paying higher tuition because it is he who benefits. And states should be slow to boost tuition in any case. For if an able student is denied a college education because he lacks the money then society, as well as the student, is the loser.

Nixon told a college audience that our non-military conflict with Russia is more serious than any armed threat. So now we can stop worrying about missiles?

TOPSY TURVY WINTER

A lot of people in Minnesota and other points north have been wondering what ever happened to winter. And a lot of people in Tennessee, Virginia and other points south have been wondering when winter was going to let up.

The Weather Bureau has not had much to say on the latter question, but does have a sort of part way explanation for the winter's unorthodox behavior. The high stream of air that moves from west to east across the country, it seems, slipped far south of its normal course in February and brought huge snows to states which normally get little. Then all that snow on the ground kept the air cold and stormy, leading to even more snow.

Those in the balmy North must derive a certain satisfaction from having it all (except what shunted the air stream southward) neatly explained. But in the wintry South the weathermen's revelations have brought only cold comfort.

'These Days'

CASTRO'S SUGAR

In a world where power has replaced justice and where war and the preparation for war are constant, it is not surprising that the American attitude toward Castro is regarded as weakness, as cowardice, as accepting insults because the courage is lacking to reject them.

But there is more to it than that. Some American companies have operated in both the United States and Cuba. The principal companies with interests in Cuba are the Cuban American Sugar Refining Company, United Fruit Company, and American Sugar Refining Company.

It is to be noted that a part of the two cents a pound subsidy which Cuba's sugar receives from the United States goes to American companies growing and manufacturing Cuban sugar. Cuba has a quota which currently amounts to 375,000 tons.

Whatever goes to the Castro government from this subsidy, is used to purchase arms for Castro's army, to support revolutionary movements in Latin America, and perhaps eventually to demonstrate an ability to strike at some American spot at a time when it may be inconvenient for the United States to engage in a mopping-up of Cuba.

The weakness of American policy is based on three theories:

1. The United States is morally a better nation than Soviet Russia and therefore will not treat Cuba as Soviet Russia treated Hungary;

2. Whatever action is taken against Castro must be taken by the Organization of American States (O.A.S.) and not by the United States solo;

3. The United States does not wish to irritate Soviet Russia prior to the Summit Conference and therefore it is sound to let Russia or Russian satellites get away with crimes during the present ticklish period.

Unfortunately the formulation of this policy has been left to weak hands. Obviously, it makes no sense and will ultimately lose for us leadership in the Americas as it has lost leadership for us in Asia. Nobody wants to follow a weak leader. John Foster Dulles pulled this country over many hurdles by moving from strength. He prevented the Russians from choosing the time and place for strained relations. The Suez Canal incident must be judged from that standpoint.

The present policy of the United States, which some attribute to the thinking of Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, is an idealistic concept of international relations based on the assumption that if nothing is done, Fidel Castro will come to his senses. It reminds one of the ideas of Col. Raymond Robins, way back in 1917-18, who believed that if the Communists were not interfered with they would ultimately come to their senses. By 1960, we know, for sure, that Soviet Russia has become the objective enemy of the United States with industrial and military strength beyond our imagination in 1917.

The same kind of thinking is going into our attitude toward Castro and we shall probably not wake up to our necessities until this bearded devil throws a bomb on the Panama Canal or on Miami just to show us that he can spit on us. For once and for all, the United States must show that it does not need to take guff from anybody.

The Eisenhower policy of weakness, after he had himself for so many years pursued a policy of strength, is frightening because so much of what is left of freedom in the world depends upon the United States for leadership against Soviet Russia's imperialism. Upon whom are the free and hopeful people to depend if the United States continues its policy of weakness?

Many used to criticize Dean Acheson, when he was Secretary of State, for pursuing a policy of weakness, but, in retrospect, Dean Acheson was a giant of strength compared to what we have now. He, at any rate, attempted to disentangle the United States from the errors of Teheran and Yalta, but now we are risking our national dignity and prestige over a trivial island in the Caribbean. Not only that but we continue to subsidize Castro's government!

What is such a policy expected to accomplish? Politically it is meaningless because Castro knows what Khrushchev knows, namely, that Eisenhower will only be President until next January; that beginning in June, all the political personalities in the United States will be so completely absorbed with the political campaign, that no external question will be considered seriously. It is a good time to make trouble.

Symbol of Responsibility Is Many Splendored Thing

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Asked to get at the dishes, 13-year-old Bea says, "in a minute." At intervals through the next 60 minutes she repeats the phrase. Finally there's a scene between Bea and her mother. Bea washes the dishes. Then, sullen and withdrawn, she goes to bed, pointedly omitting a "good night" to her mother.

Pretending to be reading a magazine, Bea's furious mother thinks, "lazy, irresponsible girl!"

Is she furious at Bea's aversion to dishwashing? No, ma'am. She is furious at herself for her failure to inculcate responsibility in Bea. She's angry only at Bea's resistance because it has forced her to give herself a "D" in child-training. For, like others among us, Bea's mother equates eager dishwashing by children with the important quality of responsibility.

Is her equation correct? Is eager dishwashing the prime guarantee of a daughter's responsibility? Aren't there other expressions of it from Bea?

She works hard to please her teachers. She recently asked to spend the night with a friend whose mother had been rushed to the hospital. Right now she's giving the most thoughtful care to choosing her father's birthday present.

Why are these other evidences of responsibility all canceled out by her resistance to dishwashing?

Perhaps as a child herself, Bea's mother was trained to regard dishwashing as the supreme symbol of youthful responsibility. Perhaps, as a result, she cannot see it for what it is—one of many responsibilities required of Bea throughout her day.

I wish she could see it for what it is. Because if eager dishwashing were not considered the supreme symbol of responsibility in Bea, her mother could stop attacking herself for Bea's resistance to it. And without loathing herself for weakness, she could wash the dishes occasionally herself.

She might be able to recall that she, too, resists responsibilities when others have exhausted her interest. Why, this very afternoon, Bea's mother postponed her ironing because she wasn't up to it after her morning shopping excursion with Grandma!

No, we can't make a big responsibility symbol out of any one human chore.. When we do, we aren't fair to other accomplishments.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Two Washington housemaids, riding to work on a bus, were overheard in this conversation:

"Where do you work?"

"I work for a diplomat."

"What's that?'

"They're foreigners. They throw big cocktail parties and dinners all the time, and they always go around dressed up and everything."

"My, that must be fine. What do they all talk about?"

"Oh, they talk about how hard we are to hire."

A STORY just reaching Washington from Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, concerns a Russian peasant who went to Moscow for the first time. He visited the zoo early one morning. The thing that surprised him most was a big bear and a little lamb in the same cage.

"What's that?" the peasant asked.

"That's peaceful coexistence," explained the guide.

The peasant still looked doubtful.

Then the guide told him, "We put a fresh lamb in every morning."

REP. SIDNEY R. YATES (D.-Ill.), tells this story about Franklin D. Roosevelt. The late President once wrote a memo to Eleanor telling her to cut down on the White House food bill. He suggested reducing the amount of food served at his luncheon and dinner parties.

"I know of no instance where anybody has taken a second helping except occasionally when I do," he said. "And it would be much better if I did not take a second helping anyway."

PROMOTERS for Florist Telegraph Delivery Association came up with a unique idea on how to get rid of leftover press releases about their recent national flower election. They mailed them to filibustering southern senators to use as speeches.

Sen. Herman Talmadge (D.-Ga.), acknowledged the gift by sending them a copy of one of his own speeches.

SEN. HUGH SCOTT JR. (R.-Pa.), also got into the posey election act. His favorite flower, the rose, won. So he wrote a letter to each senator and representative urging him to support the rose if Congress decides to select an official national flower.

REP. CORNELIUS E. Gallagher (D.-N. J.), wrote back saying that although he favored the violet, he would vote for the rose. "If I do otherwise," he explained, "my entire staff will picket my office."

Reason for the threatened strike is that one of Gallagher's secretaries is Arlene Hennessey, the national rose queen.

SEN. NORRIS COTTON (R.-N. H.), pulled the verbal twist of the week. He used an excerpt from one of the late Sen. Huey Long's old filibusters in urging his colleagues to end one on civil rights and get down to business.

In 1935, Long declared, "Potlikker is the residue that remains from the comingling, heating and evaporation—anyway, it is in the bottom of the pot."

After quoting this, Cotton said, "We have had enough 'heating and evaporation.' It's about time we got to the juice in the bottom of this pot."

REP. JIM WRIGHT (D.-Tex.) tossed a luncheon for some fifth grade school kids in House Speaker Sam Rayburn's private dining room. As an added treat, he arranged for Rayburn to drop by and greet the youngsters.

When the 78-year-old Rayburn arrived, he cracked, "Good! Some people my own age. I get awfully tired of spending all my time with old folks like Jim Wright here."

Later one of the small fry sidled up to Wright and asked in a low whisper, "Mr. Wright, he isn't really our age is here?"

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar. 18 — It may seem strange to readers of my column to see this subject when New England, Northern New York, Michigan, and other summer resorts are buried in two feet of snow. I, however, have definite reasons, as shown below, for writing under these wintry conditions.

Most people who are looking for a summer cottage, especially for a place to spend July and August, wait until a hot day in June before looking around for a cool spot. This is the height of folly, as much property is always in greatest demand and sells at the highest price in June or July. The bargains always occur in March and April, and this will be especially true this year.

It also should be remembered that all classes of workers are getting longer vacations, longer weekends, and more time for recreation generally. In addition, the population of the country is constantly increasing, as is also — and most especially —the people's income. I have already commented that land is the best hedge against inflation. Certainly, a modest summer home should be a better investment than a "second car." It could even be a place of refuge in case of World War 3.

Buy Water Frontage if Possible

While the government can print more bonds and dollar bills, "only God" can make more natural properly drained frontage on the ocean or on lakes or on rivers. Although, in Florida and in some other places, artificial water frontage is being made by pumping out adjoining sand, yet this amount is infinitesimal, considering the waterfront already available. Even if you feel unable now to buy or build a summer home, you might well buy some land if it is properly located. In the meantime, your children should be taught to fish and swim.

Although I personally prefer Cape Ann, Mass., as the finest spot in the nation for a summer home, yet I realize that many people feel better on mountain land in the summertime. This especially applies to those with asthmatic tendencies or chronic coughs. Pine and spruce woodland is very agreeable to many. Such land is gradually increasing in price as the trees grow. When purchasing any kind of land for a summer place, be sure to have electricity and telephone connections. Good, pure water can always be secured by drilling a well. Such wells should be free from contamination, and should be safe from fallout in the event of atomic war. Some civil defense authorities claim that woodland partially protects against fallout dangers, but this has not been proved.

Don't Buy Sight Unseen

In closing, let me say a word to those who are looking for winter homes or for all-year-round homes in the south or in California and the southwest. Salesmen with maps and photographs should be treated courteously, but one should never buy a summer place or a winter home without first visiting the property. This is important in order to acquaint one's self not only with the land, elevation, etc., but also with the neighbors. Increases in property values depend largely upon the neighbors.

It is also wise — although not essential — to get within reasonable distance of a community with churches, schools, fine apartments, library facilities, and stores. I assume that every reader desiring a summer or winter home has an automobile; but in addition, it is a good idea to be fairly near a bus route. If one bomb should be dropped accidentally on a Russian or American city by some psychotic aviator, it would be almost impossible for the average citizen not employed in defense work to get any gasoline. The government will see that all living people get necessary, even if scantily rationed, food, — but their provision will not include gasoline.

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Broad moves to improve the United States' foreign trade highlighted business developments this week.

President Eisenhower, in a special message to Congress, urged "a more vigorous effort by both government and business to improve our capacity for international competition."

Out to Erase Deficit

He ordered intensification of governmental promotion efforts in a drive to eradicate last year's $3,700,000,000 deficit in balance of payments — the ratio of dollars coming in and going out.

In another action to stimulate export, the government announced it would guarantee American exporters against losses arising from "political risks." These risks include currency restrictions, confiscation of property or funds, war and civil uprisings.

As for domestic business, President Eisenhower told his news conference that the outlook this year is "very healthy and very fine."

The Labor Department reported employment in February rose by 500,000 to 64,520,000. The total was a record for the month and 1,800,000 more than a year ago. Unemployment, which usually increases in February, dropped by 218,000 to 3,931,000, down 800,000 from a year ago.

Tight Money No Bugaboo

Tight money apparently hasn't become the bugaboo expected. A survey of 1,541 manufacturers showed that only 14 per cent had eliminated, reduced or postponed major expenditures for expansion programs because of tight money.

The Commerce Department reported that personal income in January was at a seasonally adjusted rate of 393 billion dollars. This was 200 million above the previous January high and 22 billion higher than in January 1959.

The stock market took heart from favorable developments and gained in four out of five sessions this week.

Stock, Bond Sales Down

Stock sales this week totaled 12,948,300 shares compared with 15,980,064 the previous week. Bond sales were $25,228,000 par value this week, compared with $33,065,000 last week.

There were some adverse developments. Private housing starts last month dipped eight per cent to an annual rate of 1,115,000. Industrial output in February eased off from January but was ahead of last year. Appliance sales trailed the year ago pace.

On the farm front, bad weather disrupted the marketing pattern for beef cattle and hogs. As a result, prices went up.

Stormy weather and a late Easter again caused retail trade to show a loss of two to six per cent from year ago levels.

Food Index Up

Wholesale food registered their biggest weekly gain of the year. Dun & Bradstreet's food index—representing the cost of one pound each of 31 foods in general use—went to $5.91 from $5.84 last week.

Little Slam Wasn't There

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When a rubber bridge game continues far into the night the bidding usually increases in tempo and the play is apt to loosen up.

South's six heart bid is a good example of this. Earlier in the day he probably would have settled for game and rubber.

West opened the king of diamonds and East dropped the deuce, whereupon West shifted to the queen of clubs.

South was tired but not too tired to see that his only hope of making the slam would be a swindle and he proceeded to work one out.

He simply ran off all his trumps and discarded the two small diamonds and a club from dummy. East had to make six discards and never realized that his spades were useless. If South had any losing spades he could always have trumped them instead of running his trump suit. Anyway, East was tired and careless and let one club go.

Now South cashed dummy's last high club, carefully unblocked the nine in his own hand and dropped the jack and ten from the East and West hands. Now two good clubs and a spade gave South his contract.

Bank Gang Is Believed Broken Up in Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — Police believe they have broken up the "Red Hood" gang accused of terrorizing Montreal banks for two years and getting away with a million dollars in loot.

Dapper Michel Delisle, 29, suspected leader of the gang, was seized Friday night as he watched TV with a girl friend in a West End apartment.

Delisle was the ninth arrest linked with the robbery gang since Jan. 4. Two of his brothers were among those seized previously.

The gang got its name from the woolen hoods members wore.

Delisle gave up without a fight. "He was taken completely by surprise," said Police Capt. Roland Perron. "This will break the back of the gang."

Paper Outlook Good

QUEBEC (AP) —Prospects are good for the pulp and paper industry this year, a trade union leader said Friday night.

Frank Grasso of Albany, N. Y., vice president of the United Paper Makers and Paper Workers, said that Canadian production in 1959 reached 10,500,000 tons, five per cent more than 1958 and equal to the record output of 1956. Approximately 2,400,000 tons were exported last year, 10 per cent more than in 1958.

Folding Cots

Folding cots are said to date back 3,500 years. One found in Egypt works much the same as the modern cot and dates from 1500 B.C.

Diploma Awaits Loyalty Oath

NEW YORK (AP) — A high school boy has refused to sign a loyalty oath required by the city Board of Education before he can get his diploma.

Edward Jahn, 16, a senior at Bayside High School in Queens, said he believed the oath required by the board, is a form of coercion.

School Principal Samuel D. Mowkowitz described the boy as "a good kid" and an "intellectual who does not accept things easily." He said Edward's grades run usually in the upper 80s and he had won a state regents' college scholarship.

Another school official said Edward might be accepted for college without the diploma since he would be considered a high school graduate.

The boy's father, Julian A. Jahn, a sociologist, said Friday that if the diploma is withheld there might be a court test of the loyalty requirement.

The boy's family is Quaker. Jahn said his son's objection is primarily intellectual but he added:

"Our background in the Society of Friends emphasizes the importance of taking individual responsibility—that if you do not approve of something, do not do it."

To Investigate Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D-NY) has been named to a special subcommittee which will investigate the crash of a Navy transport plane in Rio de Janeiro Feb. 25, fatal to 19 Navy bandsmen.

Rep. Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex) will head the special armed services subcommittee appointed to probe the crash.

Shokan

SHOKAN — Mr. and Mrs. George Bobelle, Creek Locks, were callers Saturday at the home of Bobelle's sister, Mrs. Lester Leone, in the village center.

Another new house is going up along the east side of the Ridge Road. This is the third dwelling to be built in that immediate section within a year. Ridge Road, one of the oldest and shortest highways in the Town of Olive, runs due north from Route 28 at Shokan to its junction with the Ashokan Mountain Road in the Tonche neighborhood.

Cards have been received from Frank and Rose Kemble Longyear, former Kingston couple who now reside at Sebring, Fla.

John R. Fairbairn of Dry Brook Valley has a purebred Holstein cow, four years old, which under official test gave 16,000 pounds of milk with 586 pounds butter fat content.

Pvt. Lester Lawrence Jr. is now stationed at Aberdeen, Md. James Lawrence is currently undergoing National Guard training at Fort Dix, N. J.

Birthdays March 18 include that of James Bush, retired Ashokan Reservoir Department employe. He married Mildred Carter of Shokan and they have two children.

Winifred Haille and Mrs. Clarence Bolton, Woodstock, were callers at the local free museum last Sunday.

Also here Sunday was Robert Darrigan, North Plank Road, Newburgh. Darrigan, a member of the Continental Drum Corps, is interested in securing an old time musket suitable for use by the corps color guard.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schoch are home again following a motor tour of several months through southern and far western states.

The condition of Mrs. Earl Elmendorf reportedly remains about the same at the Benedictine Hospital where she has been a patient for nearly two months.

Robert Winnie has completed a cement floor in his new 40 by 50-foot fireproof welding shop on Route 28. Other features are a traveling crane and a unique system of overhead lighting. A heavy anvil, mounted on a wooden block, such as was found in every village blacksmith shop of the long ago, is in marked contrast to the shop's modern equipment.

Mrs. Martin Christianson, Ruby, called on friends in the village center last Saturday.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is no stint in the trek of Western shows across the TV screen. But they may get less violent.

Gun-shy viewers can find little comfort in the projected 1960-61 TV season. Most horse epics appear able to survive option time, and there will be new ones to sub for the few that are dropped.

Some producers are listening to growing criticism of violence in their product. Says Dick Powell, head of booming Four Star Productions:

"We're definitely trying in every series we do to get more dramatic scripts. That means more development of character and less show of violence.

"We have a new series called 'The Westerner' that will have very little rough stuff in it. 'The Rifleman' seldom has much violence, nor does 'Wanted Dead or Alive.'"

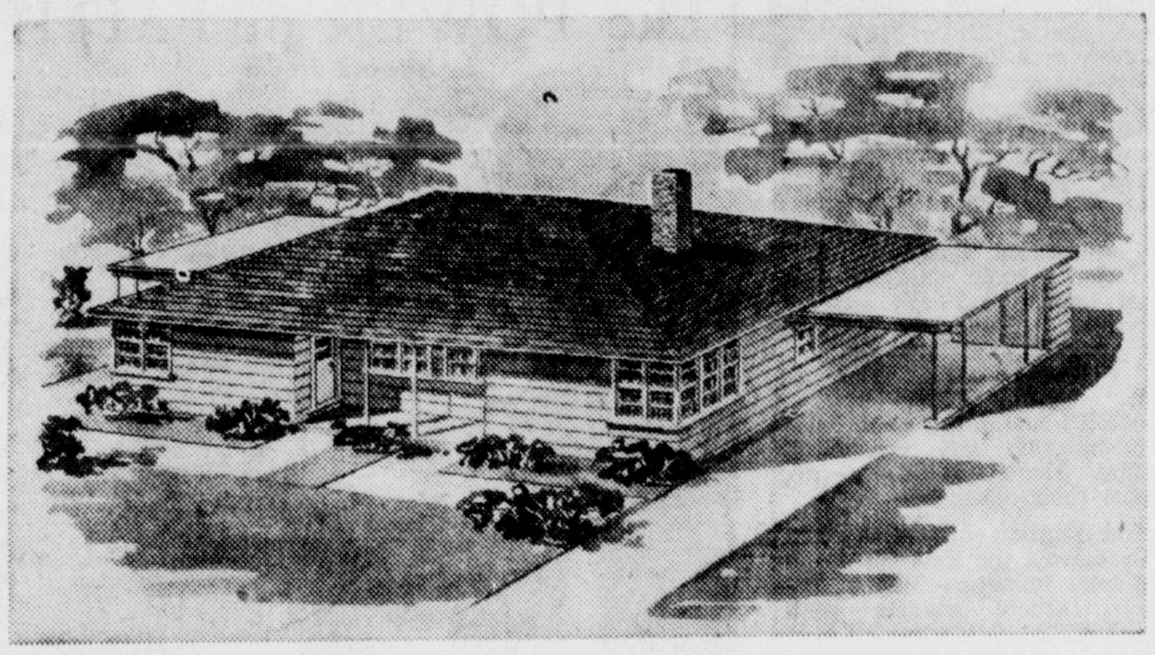
Earl Holliman (Hotel de Paree) said that violence per se is kept out of the show. When big fight scenes are done, the film makers try to inject humor. Holliman said viewers seek action and violence in Westerns as an escape and added, "No Western is as violent as some of the cartoons that are shown on TV."

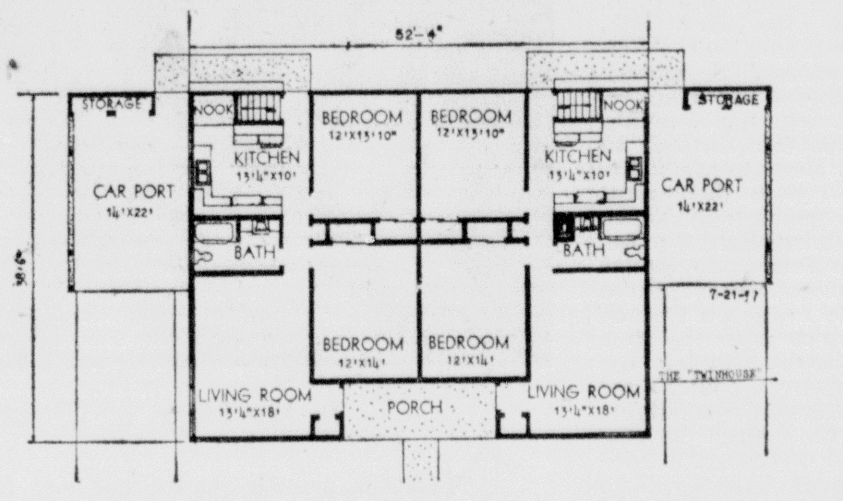
Bob Horton (Wagon Train) says his show has aimed more for straight story lines with character development in the past year. But you can't show a true picture of the West without some violence, he said—"otherwise it would be 'Little Women' with an all-male cast."

But "Gunsmoke," long one of the most violent of the Westerns, appears to be holding the line. Says star Jim Arness:

"The purpose of 'Gunsmoke' is to portray as realistically as possible a period of history. This period by force of necessity was a hard period. The frontier was run by men who were strong and survived through that strength. When violence erupted as it did, it was Matt Dillon's job to put it down wherever and whenever it occurred. As such, 'Gunsmoke' will continue its policy of realism."

Compact, Modern Duplex Home That Solves Two-Family Problem





By Associated Architects

Is there a two-family problem involved in your homemaking plans? If so, Associated Architects today offers the ideal solution—a one-level duplex that provides equal and spacious facilities for both families.

Everything is in duplicate in "The Twinhouse," including a large living room, a full bath, a roomy kitchen wtih a dining area, and two handsome bedrooms.

Even if you have a one-family problem, this duplex is well worth your consideration from the standpoint of financing. You can live comfortably in one side and rent the other to take care of mortgage payments.

The duplicate floor plans are laid out for economy as well as utility, under a hip roof which adds to the compact features of the design.

Full Privacy

An important factor to be noted is the arrangement of the plan so that the naturally noisier areas of each unit are farthest apart with the bedrooms assigned to inside locations. This eliminates disturbances on either side from normal family activities.

A common, recessed porch forms the front entry for both sides of the duplex. But each has its own entrance on a vestibule that includes a handy guest closet.

The living rooms occupy the outside corner positions, with the longest measurement running the depth of the house.

The baths are located to the rear of the living rooms, in a central position that offers easy accessibility. The doorways to either bedroom are but a step away, as is a linen closet.

Compact Kitchen

The kitchens are in the rear, planned for compact, modern efficiency. The main work surface forms an L with the dining nook located in the rear outside corner that is formed almost entirely of window space for good natural light and ventilation.

The apartments both have rear entries off the kitchen that provide quick access to the smartly designed car ports. The entrance to the cellar is also located at this point. In the plan without a basement, the stairway becomes a heater room.

"The Twinhouse" contains 1,885 square feet of living space evenly divided between the two units. The cubage is 26,390 cubic feet with basement, and 23,249 cubic feet without. Together, the car ports contain 4,004 cubic feet. The over-all outside measurements are 52 feet four inches by 38 feet six inches.

Complete form specifications are included with blueprints available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon.

Fight Against Aphids

The aphids which cluster on the tips and buds of roses and chrysanthemums in October are just as injurious as their predecessors in May. These sucking insects cause discoloration of leaves and flowers and, if not checked, lessen the vigor of the plant. Regular spraying with a nicotine sulfate and soap solution should continue until cold banishes aphids for the winter.

Grant in Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP)—The Hungarian government has made a $2,000 grant for the restoration of the oldest church building in the Hungarian Lutheran Church. The structure was built in the 13th Century in the village of Lovaszpatona. It is regarded as an important art monument. The Hungarian Church Press, official news service of Hungarian Protestant churches, reported the grant.

Keep Leaves Out Of Roof Gutters

You should clean dead leaves out of your roof gutters as soon as leaves stop falling this autumn and periodically inspect them to avoid blockage. Your roof's rain drainage system can work if it is clogged and can't protect your home from seeping water damage.

When you remove dead leaves, check the inner surfaces of the roof gutters for rusty spots and touch them up with protective paint. Roof gutters properly cared for in this way will protect your home for many years.

Prevent Flareup

Placing a layer of vermiculite in the bottom of an outdoor grill has been suggested for cookouts. The material will soak up meat drippings and help prevent blazing flareups while food is being cooked.

Re-styling With Wood Mouldings Perks Up Walls

A slight amount of "re-styling" with wood mouldings can make all the difference in perking up walls and doors.

Take a long look at your house, both inside and out, to see what miracles can be performed with a little ingenuity and even less expense.

You may well be tired of the flat look of a modern front door. Wood mouldings set onto the door in any number of designs will add new interest—particularly if painted in a color that contrasts with the color of the door itself. The same is true of garage doors, where the bigger they are the more they need design to break up their broadness.

In many rooms you may find that a moulding run around the walls as a chair rail will lend architectural interest to a dull room and also protect your walls from wear. A picture moulding installed at the juncture of wall and ceiling will help finish off a starkly modern room, while a moulding set a foot or two below a high ceiling will tend to bring it down.

It might be wise to consult your architect, builder, or a landscape specialist. He'll know what to do to enhance your house or yard with mouldings that really can make a contribution to decor.

Port-Starboard

The port side of a boat is the left-hand side, looking forward; starboard, the right-hand side.

Use the Proper Thinner

Use the proper thinner for the product you've painted with, when cleaning brushes. Brushes dipped in oil paint, enamel or varnish should be cleaned with turpentine followed by naphtha or mineral spirits. Use alcohol to clean brushes used for shellac or alcohol stain. Use lacquer thinner for lacquer brushes.

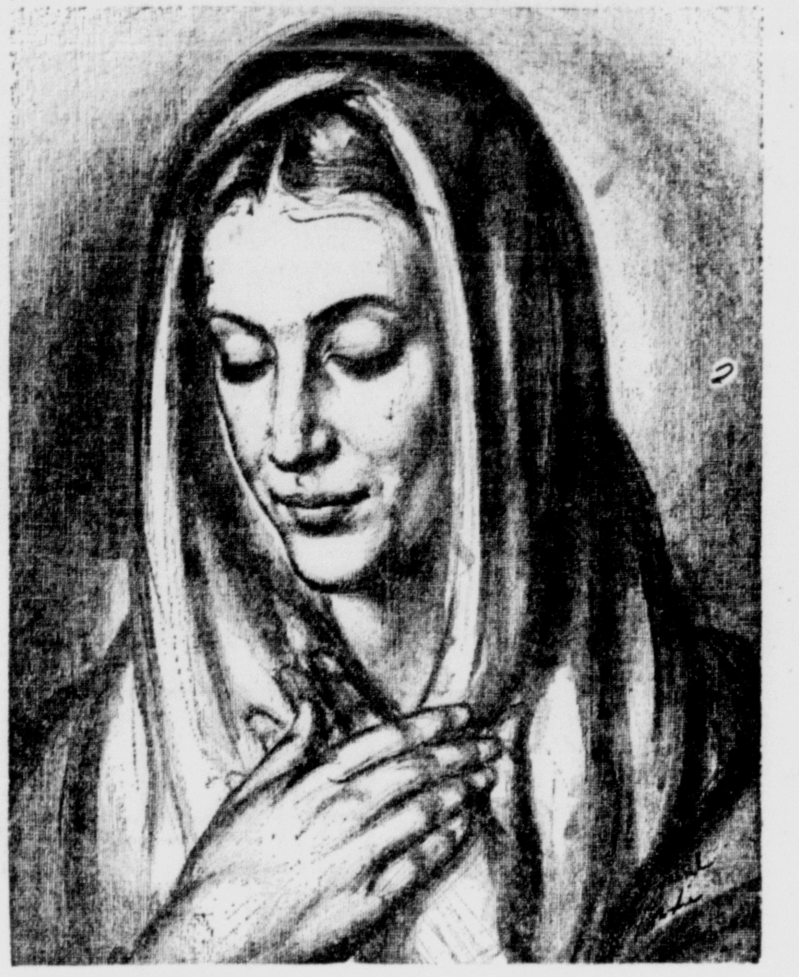
The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie



In the Steps of Christ

"Now there stood by the Cross of Jesus, His mother . . ." (John 19:25).

And so the end had come at last, the end that was in reality only the beginning for all of mankind. Mary had to be there on Calvary's heights. It took courage to watch Him die, but somehow she summoned it up. She had brought Him into the world amid Bethlehem's squalor. It was to her that He addressed the fateful words: "I must be about My Father's business." And it was at her urging that He began his public ministry at the Marriage Feast of Cana.

It was inevitable that the tenderest of His last words should be directed at her and, through the Apostle John, to all mankind:

"Woman, behold thy son . . .
Son, behold thy mother."

In less than an hour, she would be taking His body to the tomb, cradling it in her arms in a heart-rending scene that would inspire artists and sculptors for centuries to come. Pieta, mother and son.

Jesuit Priest Gives Felons New Lease on Life at Haven

By BOB POOS

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The Rev. Charles D. Clark glances around the old school building and remarks:

"You can see more crooks here in 10 minutes than you can in a month on TV."

The old school is Dismas House, a haven operated by Father Clark for burglars, stickupmen, murderers and other felons recently released from prison.

Named for Good Thief

Dismas House, named for the good thief who died on a cross next to Jesus, is a halfway house between prison and the outside world.

In it, paroled convicts get meals, a bed, a change of clothing and, more than likely, a new lease on life.

Father Clark, a 57-year-old Jesuit, has devoted himself to helping criminals for the past 23 years. He rather enjoys his informal title, "Hoodlum Priest."

Since October, Dismas House has turned out more than 300 rehabilitated criminals. They have jobs and homes and are on the way to becoming useful members of society.

Before Dismas House, Father Clark helped countless other convicts. Some slipped back to the guns and blackjack.

Plays the Percentages

"I don't kid myself," says Father Clark. "I play the percentages. But you can almost sense it if a man really wants to go straight."

Before the men are paroled in his custody, they are carefully screened at the prison. Then Father Clark takes a long look at them himself. He will not accept rapists, homosexuals or narcotics addicts.

The idea for Dismas House started working in Father Clark's mind 23 years ago when Judge David Fitzgibbons invited him to attend some sessions of the Court of Criminal Correction.

Was Shocking Sight

"I was shocked by what I saw," he recalls. "Men with no hope in life. No home, family, friends. Men who returned to crime because they couldn't see any other way to go."

One day last year Father Clark walked into the office of his lawyer-friend, Morris Shenker, an Orthodox Jew and sometime benefactor. The lawyer looked at the priest and reached for his wallet.

"OK, father, how much this time?" he asked.

"Forty thousand ought to do," answered Father Clark.

Shenker put down $2,000, signed a note for the remainder and soon an 87-year-old abandoned school, located in a grim section of downtown St. Louis, became Dismas House.

About 30 men currently are residents of Dismas House. It can handle 60. A released con usually stays about two weeks.

CRITICISM

Criticism is one of the great essentials in this world. We need those around who tell us about our faults and our weaknesses, in a kindly way, so that we can correct them. The kind of criticism that helps us to see our mistakes, and, what is more important, the reason for them, is a tremendous asset in a world where the "wrong" won't work —and it may get us into all kinds of trouble, perhaps even involve us in ghastly tragedy!

Those who never criticize us are not really our best friends. A friend is not a person who lauds us for our good qualities but never mentions any of our faults. There is dire peril in that kind of friendship. The danger is that his laudings may serve to nourish our conceit. And it is obvious that the kind of friends who only help us to grow more conceited are not the best. For one important function of friendship is to help us to be (and remain) humble.

Not all criticism, however, is inspired by a friendly interest and concern. Sometimes it is prompted by envy or jealousy— or just plain maliciousness! It is to state the matter mildly to say that the fellow is not our friend who tosses daggers at us, or at what we are trying to do, with no concern about where they land or how much damage they do. Some years ago Burton Hillis suggested a practical test (when we are on the "offering end") of whether or not it is safe to criticize. "If it is truly painful," he said, "to criticize some member of your family, it's safe; but if it gives you even the slightest hint of pleasure, it's dangerous." That, I am sure, is an accurate and worth while measurement. It is so easy to criticize, as we say. We all need to watch ourselves lest we indulge in criticism as a kind of pleasurable past-time; instead of as one of the God-given ways of helping each other.

Sometimes we need the wisdom to accept, and adjust to, criticism. And sometimes we need the courage to ignore it— and plough right ahead! When we get all wrought up over something that someone has said about us, and feel like going out and setting fire to the whole town because of it, it is a good thing to recall that man in Boston who was raving mad because some one had written an article for the newspaper which defamed his character. He went to see Dr. Everett to ask his advice as to what he ought to do about it. "Nothing," said Dr. Everett. "Half the people who got the paper never saw the article. Half who read it did not understand it. Half who did understand it did not believe it. Half of those who believed it were of no importance anyway."

GREETING FELLOW EMPLOYEES

Dear Mrs. Post: I work in an office with several other girls and the following question has come up for discussion: Is it proper for an employee coming into the office to say good morning first to her fellow employees who are already seated at their desks? I have always felt that it was rude for the one entering not to say something in the way of greeting to those already in the office, but there are some who disagree with me and think it is the place of those already in the office to greet the later arrivals first. Will you please tell us who is right?

Answer: The one coming in does most usually give a general greeting to the room, and those who catch her eye naturally return her "good morning."

Cocktails Before the Party

Dear Mrs. Post: I was invited to a party at a friend's house recently. The night of the party I asked several other friends who were also going to this same party, to come up to my apartment for a cocktail before going on to the party. With it I served potato chips and some salted nuts. When we arrived at the party someone had mentioned this to the hostess who seemed to think I was wrong to do this and that I had interfered with her party. Will you please tell me if there was anything wrong in what I did?

Answer: If your party was very brief there was certainly nothing wrong in what you did. If you detained your guests so that they arrived late at the other party, that would have been inexcusably rude to your hostess.

Who Provides the Rice?

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon and would like to know if it is up to my family to provide the rice that is customarily thrown at the bride as she leaves the church.

Answer: The bride's family usually supplies the rice, but there is nothing in the world to prevent friends from bringing their own rice or confetti with them to throw at you.

Chancel Choir of St. James Will Present Music Program in Sanctuary on Monday

A delightful and unusual evening of music is in store for the people of Kingston on Monday evening, March 21, when members of the Chancel Choir of St. James Methodist Church will present a Chamber Music Recital in the sanctuary of the church.

The program, which includes both instrumental and vocal selections, is varied and offers works by such composers as Bach, Dvorak, Shumann, Tschaikowsky, Rimsky-Korsakov, Dubussy and others.

Featured in this recital will be Elizabeth Downs, soprano; Viola Tarsia, contralto; Carolyn Goble, harpist; Alfred and Melissa Sweet, flutists, and Raymond C. Corey, organist.

Mrs. Downs is a native of Winchester, Va. She was educated at Duke University where she was graduated Phi Beta Kappa in Music Education. Mrs. Tarsia, contralto, studied at the Cincinnati Conservatory and was graduated from the College of Music where she had full voice scholarships under the late Lino Mattioli and Giacinto Gorno. She was soloist with the Cincinnati Conservatory Opera Company and appeared extensively in concert and radio, having her own radio program.

In New York, Mrs. Tarsia studied with well known teachers in the field of opera, concert, radio television, spending much of her time in research. Until last year she taught voice and sight-singing theory at the Metropolitan Opera House Studios in New York. At present she is teaching voice sight-singing theory and piano in Kingston and Woodstock.

He, too, has played with the Monmouth Symphony, the Battle Creek, Michigan, Symphony and while at Syracuse, with band, orchestra and woodwind ensembles. He is employed by IBM as electrical engineer.

Raymond C. Corey is a native of Poughkeepsie. Prior to entering service during World War II he studied piano with Albert G. Hunter and organ with Andrew J. Baird. During four years of army service, Mr. Corey served as a chaplain's assistant and studied at Louisiana State University under Frank Collins.

Soil Bank Plan Hit by Farmers' Planting Survey

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government survey showing farmers plan to plant about as much land this year as last doesn't look good for the administrations soil bank retirement program.

This program is designed to help take unneeded crop land out of use and thus cut down on overproduction of crops at a time when farmers and the government are burdened with surpluses.

But the Agriculture Department reported Friday that farmers indicated in a survey that they plan to plant 337 million acres to crops for harvest this year, or less than one million acres below last year.

The Agriculture Department said New York farmers planned to plant 100,000 acres of dry beans this year. That would be 96 per cent of the acreage planted for the crop last year.

New York's potato growers planned to seed 45,000 acres, or 98 per cent of last year's planting, on Long Island, and 33,000 acres, or 97 per cent of the 1959 acreage, Upstate.

O'Connell Kidnap Figure in '33 Dies

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—John Oley, 59, one of eight men convicted of kidnaping the nephew of Albany Democratic leader Daniel O'Connell in 1933, died today of cancer.

Oley, who was paroled Dec. 5, 1957, was sentenced in 1937 to serve 77 years for the kidnaping of the late John J. O'Connell.

The O'Connell family paid the kidnapers $40,000 for the return of John O'Connell.

Cornell University Has Bomb Shelter Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—Cornell University has come up with a plan to provide neighborhood shelters linked by underground tubes to protect communities against nuclear fallout.

Eight graduate students of architecture presented the finished plan Friday at the World Affairs Center Auditorium. Included are miniature buildings and a landscape model.

The individual home shelters advocated by Gov. Rockefeller, and opposed by the Legislature, were not included in the results of the university's one-year study.

Cornell Prof. Frederick W. Edmonson Jr., the project director, said the university plan would not conflict with the governor's shelter proposals.

A statement accompanying the Cornell plan said, however, that a system of individual home shelters was eliminated "because families might be separated at the time of an alert."

Cardinal Spellman Appeals For Day's Wage to Charity

A plea to give at least one day's wage or income to the annual fund appeal of New York Catholic Charities will be made Sunday by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, in a pastoral letter to be read at all masses in the 401 parishes of the New York Archdiocese.

The 1960 appeal enters its final phase March 27, the start of a house-to-house solicitation of Catholic Families which will conclude April 6. The overall goal is $3,260,530 and of this amount the Special Gifts Division of the Cardinal's Committee of the Laity, has accepted a quota of $1,300,000, the remainder to be raised by the parishes.

The theme of the pastoral is "Godly living", and one way in which it is manifested, the Cardinal states, is to serve, "with wise and willing hearts our forsaken and suffering neighbors."

The religious and lay members of Catholic Charities and its affiliated institutions, together with the foster parents who care for neglected and orphaned children, are praised for their "dedicated spirit of love of God and neighbor which motivates them."

Cardinal's Own Words

Cardinal Spellman's pastoral in full follows:

"A great and reverent American once said that if he could tell himself honestly that he had eased the grief or pain or lightened the burdens of one human being, or in any manner had dedicated himself to the service of God, then would he feel that his life was not barren of the fruits of godly living.

"While godly living is manifested in many different ways, one way is to serve with wise and willing hearts our foresaken and suffering neighbors. For, if we turn away from him who asks our help, if we fail to share what we have with the poor and oppressed, how can we honestly say that the love of God dwells within us? It was the beloved Apostle, St. John, who asked, How doth the love of God abide in him who sees his brother in need, yet shuts him from his heart!

True Test Is Helping

"The true test of knowing whether we are faithful disciples of our Lord is to ask ourselves if we model our lives after the merciful heart of Christ, striving to emulate our Saviour's compassion for every anguished human being; inspiring hope in tortured, despairing hearts; assisting our afflicted brothers with the understanding and charity which Christ bestowed upon the helpless wounded stranger.

"It is this dedicated spirit of love of God and neighbor which motivates the devoted religious and lay members of the staff of Catholic Charities. Thousands of stricken people are given sympathetic help and guidance through its 192 agencies, as mercifully and expertly Catholic Charities helps solve the multitude of grave and frightening problems confronting and afflicting the aged and the homeless, the sick and the depressed, the handicapped and the wayward. Devout Sisters provide loving and constant care for unwanted and abandoned babies.

Asks for Day's Income

Foster parents share affectionate family life with orphaned and neglected children. Kind and experienced physicians, nurses and counsellors protect and train our young who are mentally retarded or emotionally disturbed. Such love as this is the highest, most heroic, most holy activity of the soul made possible only by the grace of God.

"Therefore, do I pray you, dearly beloved, to contribute at least one day's wage or income to help support Catholic Charities, because one unfailing way to demonstrate our love of God is prayerfully and generously to assist this providential organization to continue its Christ-like mission of serving our sorrowing, burdened neighbors in a way most pleasing to our Lord Himself."

Bomber Scare Is Checked Out; Just Testing Is Report

BOSTON (AP) —The Northeast Air Defense System went into action Friday when a maneuvering bomber mistakenly was believed in trouble.

Coast Guard and Air National Guard planes flew to the scene, only to find that the bomber was merely testing its equipment 400 feet above the ocean off Marblehead, Mass.

For a while the airwaves became so cluttered with signals that one National Guard plane could not get through with radio to the Air Defense Sector headquarters at Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, N. Y.

The scare that the bomber was in trouble began when the plane, based at Brunswick, Maine, Naval Air Station, flew a pattern which closely resembled a distress signal on radar.

The defense establishment was alerted from New York to the Canadian border.

These clinics serve those who are referred by their physician or those who are otherwise unable to secure these immunizations.

Harpur Students Plan to Picket 3 State Stores

VESTAL, N. Y. (AP) — More than 200 Harpur College students planned to picket three nearby stores today to protest lunch-counter segregation in the South.

Woolworth stores in Binghamton, Endicott and Johnson City were the targets of the students at the state-supported liberal arts college, said Ralph Spinelli of Endicott, president of the United Student Government, student governing body.

Harpur's president, Glenn G. Bartle, suggested to his students Friday that "a more practical way" of expressing their feelings would be to raise $1,000 for payment of fines of southern Negro students convicted in lunch-counter sitdown demonstrations.

Bartle said that, as "a senior student," he would contribute the first $10.

There was no immediate reaction from the students.

However, Spinelli said student leaders were considering a proposal to set aside one-half of the proceeds of the annual campus carnival for anti - discrimination purposes. The money could be used either to help pay fines of Negroes or for establishment of a scholarship at Harpur for a southern Negro, he said.

The campus carnival is scheduled for April 29.

Harpur, with 1,000 students, is a unit of the New York State University system.

About 30 of the students opposed the picketing plan on the ground that local stores did not discriminate.

Seek Cause of Death Of USAF Sergeant

MONTREAL (AP) — Police sought today to determine the cause of death of a U. S. Air Force sergeant, whose body was found in woods about four miles south of Montreal.

Police investigating an automobile that had been parked along St. Hubert Road, Chambley County, discovered the body of M.Sgt. Thomas C. McKinney, 45, Friday, a short distance from his car.

There were no signs of violence, police said. They found no money but said the sergeant still was wearing a watch and a ring.

McKinney, a Negro, was stationed at Plattsburgh, N. Y., Air Force Base.

Cuban Data Missing

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — State Library employes discovered this week that the sections on Cuba had been cut or torn from three sets of encyclopedia on the library's open shelves.

Mason Tolman, reference librarian, blames the current interest in Cuban affairs for the vandalism.

Complete sections on Cuba, covering several pages, were neatly cut from two sets. One page on Cuba was torn from the third.

Agency Reports Milk Prices to Dairymen Lower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that prices to dairymen for milk for fluid use in the United States decreased during early March from the previous month. But price changes to consumers were said to be mixed.

Prices paid dairymen in about 160 markets averaged $5.46 a hundredweight in early March, a decline of 8 cents from early February, but 7 cents above a year earlier.

Retail prices of delivered milk averaged 26.1 cents a quart in major markets, unchanged from a month earlier, but up seven-tenths of one cent from a year earlier.

The department said sales of fluid milk in 52 major urban markets in January were 2 per cent below those of the like month last year.

The agency also reported that preliminary surveys indicated consumption of skim milk increased 9 per cent last year.

Nassau Man Killed

NASSAU, N. Y. (AP) — Lewis Cox, 23, of Nassau, was killed early today when his automobile left Route 203 in this Rensselaer County community and crashed into a telephone pole, police said.

Poughkeepsie Stops Kingston, 67-57, for Section 9 Title

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

Several inclement days last fall raised havoc with the deer take in New York State and when the final figures were in the disappointment was widespread.

The 1959 take of 42,306 deer fell far below the 1958 harvest of 72,677 and was only half the number that State Conservation Department biologists hoped would be harvested to help reduce serious winter starvation losses.

The department officials reduced the one-day deer of either sex season from 53 counties in 1958 to only two full counties and parts of ten in 1959. The sharply reduced hunting areas are reflected in the comparative figures. But as in other years the alarmists were disappointed. The deer seemed to survive in wholesale numbers and wanton slaughter is no longer discussed.

• Weather Was Major Factor:

A total of 437,070 big game hunters were licensed to go afield last fall, according to Department statistics, 64,356 less than the number licensed in 1958, apparently due mainly to unusually bad weather conditions which persisted through most of the season and kept hunters at home. That the weather was a major factor in the decreased total number of licenses issued was further reflected by record sales to non-residents who normally make plans and procure licenses long before storm warnings are up. More non-residents, both gunners and archers, bought licenses than in 1958.

The Westchester archery season proved a real dud. It was designed to help reduce the over-balanced Westchester County deer herd by permitting archers to take a second deer there—even if the first had been taken in another county. Only 25 "second deer" were tagged. A total of 330 were taken during Westchester's long (two months) regular archery season, however. Westchester's special shotgun season produced 490 more for a county total of 845. This was not far from the number of deer which have been killed by motorists on Westchester highways in a single year. In 1958, state game protectors alone disposed of the carcasses of 260 deer which had been Westchester traffic victims.

Despite Westchester's proximity to the metropolitan area, 60 per cent of the 2,200 deer hunters afield in that county during the gunning season were local residents and about one in four bagged a deer.

In the taxidermy and Hot Stove League departments, hunters will be interested to know that more than half (61.8 per cent) of the old bucks (3½ years old and up) had already shed their antlers by the time they were bagged during the Dec. 14-18 special "any deer" season in the five southeastern counties. Of the 2½-year-old bucks, one third (34.7 per cent) had dropped their horns and one fifth (33.8 per cent) of the 1½-year-olds had shed. The significance of this phenomenon lies in the fact that buck deer shed their antlers every year and when hunters bag a wise old buck, they naturally like to do it when he has all his basic equipment attached.

• 433 Black Bears Bagged:

The 433 black bears (New York has no other kind) taken were 81 below the total killed in 1958. The Catskills region reported a take of 51 bears which was 61 below the 1958 bag. The western counties produced a take of only a dozen which was some 13 below the previous year.

In the Adirondacks, however, 370 bears were bagged (three by archers) which was only seven below the 1958 bag. Of these, 23 wore Conservation Department ear tags which were returned to the Department (plus certain physical data regarding the bear for the $25 reward.

Since only 23 were taken of the total 216 ear-tagged bears which presumably were roaming the Adirondacks before the season opened, it might be assumed, says the Department, that the ratio was par for the course, thus establishing an Adirondack bear population substantially exceeding 3,000 head.

If the foregoing statistics have tempted you to say: So what? Please don't. This is serious business.

Texaco '5' Captures Minor Playoff Title

Bob Shot, George Uhl and Charles Williams led Texaco to the Minor League playoff title last night at the YMCA court. The Chiefs stopped Accord, 74-48, in the final tilt.

Short rimmed 25 points, Uhl recorded 20 and Williams had 15. Werner Wustrau was the best for the losers with 16 markers.

The winners broke away in the third and fourth periods after being held to a 38-29 margin at halftime.

Rochester Has Slim Title Hope

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Rochester Americans still had a chance today—although a slim one—of winning the American Hockey League title.

The Amerks fought to a 3-3 overtime deadlock with the league-leading Springfield Indians in the only game Friday night. The Indians needed a victory to wrap it up.

Brian Kilrea scored two goals for the Indians, one in the first and one in the second periods. The Amerks scored all three of their goals in the middle session. Pat Hannigan, Hank Ciesla and Ted Hampson was the marksmen.

Meantime the league announced that Larry Zeidel of the Hershey Bears had been suspended for four games for kicking Michael Harvey of the Quebec Aces during a fight last Sunday.

Junior Tourney Slated Tonight

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Parsons (Kan.) will tangle with the towering Tyler (Tex) team tonight in the finals of the National Junior College Basketball Tournament.

Tyler just barely kept it from being an all-Kansas finish by edging Hutchinson 82-80 in an overtime semifinal game Friday night.

Parsons breezed past Cameron (Okla.) 85-80 in the other semifinal contest.

Hutchinson will play Cameron tonight for third place, with the loser taking sixth place.

This afternoon Lindsey Wilson (Ky) will play Grand View (Iowa) for fourth and seventh places, and Pueblo (Colo) will meet Howard County (Tex) for fifth and eighth.

Locals Collapse Late in Game; Uhl Finishes With 517 Points

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Collapsing in the last ten minutes of the game, Kingston High players lost their bid for a Section Nine championship last night at the Orange County Community College court in Middletown, bowing to Poughkeepsie, 67-57. The win enabled Sam J. Kalloch's boys to make a sweep of honors for the season and gave them their 15th straight triumph.

In losing, the locals had one consolation. Joe Uhl scored 24 points during the course of the evening to run his total for the season to 517 in 20 games. It broke the old mark of 500 points in 20 games, set by LeRoy Hooker during the 1951-52 season.

With two minutes left to play in the third period, Jimmy Gordon, the ace defensive player for the PHS five, was tagged with his fourth personal foul. Uhl converted the free throw and it moved Kingston ahead, 43-39. The collapse started at this point.

Steve Albrecht (and what a tremendous performer this lad was) tapped a rebound through the twine. Then Gordon made a three point play to shove the champs ahead for a brief spell. Uhl, who collected 13 points during the third quarter, was successful with a follow shot and the locals led, 45-44. It was the last time they were in front.

Ahead for Keeps

Baskets by Ty Elting and Billy James just before the buzzer shot the Pioneers ahead, 48-45. It was just a signal for them to pull away in the final period.

Albrecht and Bob Boschen started the fourth stanza by converting fouls. After Albert Brown tallied a deuce for the locals to apply some pressure once again, the winners put on a spurt, being equal to the threat.

Albrecht was the ringleader. He hit with a layup and then tapped in a missed shot. This zoomed the margin to 54-47 with 5:00 to play. Gordon fouled out seconds later but this only served to fire the Pioneers to greater heights.

Out of Reach

James and Elting scored with driving layups, Albrecht converted a free throw and James hit with two foul shots more. This zoomed the margin to 61-47 and put the contest out of reach.

Until the sudden collapse by the Maroon players, this had been a fairly even tilt. The locals took the lead midway in the second quarter and held it until those final moments of the third period. The biggest margin was seven points midway through the third quarter.

Uhl Is Hot

Uhl was hampered by personal foul trouble and sat out most of the second quarter with three of them. He broke Hooker's record with 5:45 remaining before the half when he made a jump shot. Joe was red hot in the third period, scoring six baskets in seven shots and making a free throw. He kept his teammates in the game during that hot stretch.

The Pioneers were successful despite another superlative defense effort by John Kelly. Long John, closing a brilliant high school career, held Boschen to only 10 points and six of those came as the result of scrambles underneath the hoop.

Good Teamwrok

Though Boschen was stymied, the rest of the PHS five was not. Albrecht played one of his greatest games. He literally controlled both backboards and also tallied 18 points. He was the difference. However, Gordon, Elting and James all hit in double figures. It was strictly a team triumph.

Uhl, Kelly and Brown were in double digits for the locals but the other players were below par. The loss was the fourth in 20 starts for the locals. They finished second in the DUSO race and second in the Sectionals, both times behind Poughkeepsie.

NCAA Hockey Title Is on Line Tonight

BOSTON (AP)—Denver's favored Pioneers pit their strong defense and firepower against the speed of the Michigan Tech forwards tonight for the NCAA Hockey Championship.

Denver, which won the title in its only other tourney appearance two years ago, worked hard Friday night for a 6-4 triumph over stubborn Boston University at the arena. The Pioneers had 45 shots on goal to the Terriers' 22.

Local observers were more impressed with Tech in its 13-3 victory over St. Lawrence in Thursday's semi-final.

BU and St. Lawrence meet for the consolation title this afternoon.

The championship pairing assures the west of its 11th crown in the 13 year history of the competition.

Lausse Gets Win Over Wilf Greaves

NEW YORK (AP) — An Eduardo Lausse-Carmen Basilio middleweight "natural" was in the works today following the Argentine's sensational return to the U.S. ring.

The 32-year-old South American champion celebrated his first fight in the United States in four years Friday night by stopping strong Wilfie Greaves, the Canadian ruler, in 1:33 of the fourth round of a television thriller at Madison Square Garden.

Only a few minutes after Referee Ruby Goldstein intervened to save Greaves from injury, matchmaker Teddy Brenner proposed the Lausse-Basilio match.

"I might just take it," said Basilio. He was in the Garden to handle his lightweight protege Dick DiVeronica of Syracuse. Dick outpointed Tommy Pachecho in an eight-round prelim.

Lausse was a little rusty and wild at times Friday but he kept swinging away with his potent left hook. One of them finally turned the trick early in the fourth round. The punch caught Wilfie on the head and staggered him. That was the beginning of the end.

A right and left to the jaw then dropped the husky blond for eight. When he arose on wobbling legs, Lausse let him have it with both barrels. He was about to fall again when Goldstein stopped the rout.

Stilt Hurt As Philly Tops Celts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain finally got made and it could cost the Philadelphia Warriors their chance to win the National Basketball Assn.'s Eastern championship.

The 250-pound Chamberlain left for Boston Friday night, his right hand swatched in bandages. It injured in a fist fight with Boston's Tom Heinsohn after the two collided in the first period of Friday tory.

"It hurts and it's swollen," said the 7-foot-1 giant.

The two teams, now tied 1-1, meet in Boston in the third of the best-of-seven game series.

In the Western Division, the St. Louis Hawks are at Minneapolis this afternoon trying to recoup from a defeat Thursday night on their home court. The Hawks-Lakers series also is tied 1-1, but the Lakers have the advantage of winning that all important road game. They could upset the Hawks in the playoffs for the second straight year merely by winning their three home games in the best-of-seven series.

Fight Is Highlight

The fight between Chamberlain and the 6-7, 220-pound Heinsohn was the highlight of a rugged battle between the two Eastern rivals before a record Convention Hall crowd of 12,581.

Chamberlain charged after the former Holy Cross flash, his fists flailing. They stood toe-to-toe and slugged it out until players of both teams, the officials and police broke it up.

Chamberlain has charged all season he was being roughed. His coach, Neil Johnston, has shouted himself hoarse to The Stilt to fight back. He finally did and it may be the most costly fighting back of the year for Johnston and his crew. It's no secret that without Chamberlain, the Warriors resemble the last-place team of 1959.

Heinsohn charged that Chamberlain was as guilty of roughing as anyone else in the league.

Friday night's game was the Warriors' most of the way. Except for five lead changes in the first period, and a 41-41 tie in the second quarter, Philadelphia led all the way.

Chamberlain collected 29 points. Heinsohn's 26 were high for the Celtics.

Absent-minded doctor's wife—Why did you tear out the back part of that new book?

Doctor—Excuse me, dear, the part you speak of was labeled "appendix" and I took it out without thinking.

A group of men were discussing women's talkitiveness. Finally one man said, "No woman could ever talk as much as my Aunt Bella. She was married to my Uncle Henry for thirty years before she found out he was deaf and dumb."

The wife wanted to do some shopping during the day, so at breakfast she asked her husband for $10.

Husband — Money, money, money! Every day of the week you want more money. If you ask me, I think you need brains more than you need money.

Wife — Perhaps so, but I thought that you'd be more likely to have money.

Every little girl is in a hurry to grow up and wear the kind of shoes that just kill mother.

Patient—What do you charge for extracting a tooth?

Patient—$5 for only two seconds work?

Doctor—Well, if you wish, I can extract it very slowly.

A friend reports that a few evenings ago, in a traffic snarl, one of the inevitable horn-tooters began blasting his horn. A man in a car alongside looked over and politely inquired, "What else did you get for Christmas?"

Buddy—Too bad. Was he a handsome devil?

Husband—Can't say. I never met the man.

Mr. Cassidy looked at the lawyer with contempt, and answered in a tone of blighting scorn,

Cal Aims for 2nd NCAA Title After Thumping of Bearcats

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's Golden Bears aim for a second straight NCAA basketball title against an underdog Ohio State club tonight after turning back Cincinnati and its great Oscar Robertson.

The Bears won their semifinal 77-69 Friday night. Earlier Ohio State romped to a 76-54 triumph over the Violets of New York University.

NYU and Cincinnati meet in a consolation game tonight.

Only three times before have teams won two national collegiate cage titles in a row—Oklahoma A & M in 1945-46, Kentucky in 1948-49 and San Francisco in 1955-56.

Cal Is Favored

California went into the Cincinnati game as three-point favorites and will be the choice by that much or more tonight at the Cow Palace despite the high scoring Buckeye offense that led the nation with a 91.6 average.

Friday night Cincinnati and California played a near repetition of their semifinal last year when the Bears limited Robertson to 19 points. This time he scored only four field goals but added 10 from the free throw line for a total of 18 — far below his 34.3 season average.

California's 6-foot-10 center, All-America Darrall Imhoff, turned in one of the greatest games of his life. He scored 25 points and led the comeback after Cincinnati held a 20-11 lead early in the game. Teammate Bill McClintock tallied 18 and like Darrall proved a demon on defense.

Tandy Gillis was the man guarding Robertson, but Coach Pete Newell said later all of his team watched the Big O when he had the ball.

"I'm glad we don't have to play against Oscar anymore," said Pete. "His assists must have set up at least 35 points. We jammed up on him in the first half. We had to overplay Oscar so much they got a man loose."

Newell made no predictions on his game against Ohio State tonight except to say the Buckeyes had "one of the best Big Ten teams I've seen in a long time."

Buckeyes Never Trail

They showed it in jumping to an 8-0 lead against NYU and never falling behind. All-America Jerry Lucas and unsung playmaker Larry Siegfried led the attack with 19 points each.

Lucas at 6-8 made the All-America team this season as a sophomore.

NYU closed to within two points late in the first half, but with Lucas showing the way, the Buckeyes pulled to a 37-28 halftime advantage.

California proved exceptionally hot at the free throw line sinking its first 21 attempts and finishing with 25 of 32. Cincinnati sank 17 of 23. Both clubs hit 26 field goals.

"It's like I said," commented Cincinnati Coach George Smith, "the game would be decided by fouls, free throws and breaks. We got the fouls and they got the free throws and breaks."

Cal Sparkles for Reds Against Phils

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who says Cal McLish can't pitch in the spring?

Well, Calvin Coolidge Julius Caesar Tuskahoma McLish for one.

"I just hope the Reds stick with me," the big right-hander was saying. "I have to learn all the hitters in this league all over again. I'm just not a good pitcher in the spring."

But that was before Friday when McLish, a 19-game winner for Cleveland in the American League last year, scattered five hits in five runless innings against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Cincinnati lost the exhibition 1-0 to the Phils at Tampa, but Reds' Manager Fred Hutchinson had reason to be pleased.

"Spring training is for working out the kinks," he was saying the same day McLish did his talking. "If he (Cal) is going to get knocked around, now's the time for it to happen."

Lefty Joe Nuxhall finished up for the Reds and lost it when rookie Jim Coker touched him for a run-scoring double in the eighth inning.

Only two other games were played in Florida where rain has been forcing exhibition cancellations for several days. The Milwaukee Braves whipped the New York Yankees 7-4 at St. Petersburg, and Detroit beat St. Louis 7-6 at Lakeland.

Rain Tapers Off In Florida, 1,500 Have Left Homes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pleasant weather prevailed over much of the western two-thirds of the nation today—the last complete day of winter.

But cloudy to partly cloudy skies shaded most of the eastern third of the country and brought more precipitation to scattered areas.

Rain tapered off in Florida, hard hit by three days of downpours, but an estimated 1,500 persons already had been forced from their homes by surging flood waters in the central part of the state, the Red Cross said.

Tampa appeared to be the hardest hit area as the Hillsborough River swelled from water flowing down from Pasco and counties.

The Weather Bureau reported a total of 25 inches fell in Pasco County and about 20 inches in northern Tampa, Hillsborough, and Pinellas County in the three-day period.

Precipitation in the eastern third of the nation today was confined mostly to parts of the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the lower Great Lakes region, and fell as light rain and snow.

Clear skies prevailed over most of the West the last day before spring, which arrives officially at 9:43 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, Sunday.

Effect of Veterans' Bill

List Some Income Exempt In Pension Payment Plan

EDITOR'S NOTE: No law enacted by Congress in recognition of the needs of those who served their country in time of peril will have more far-reaching effect than the new veterans' pension bill. Intricate in several respects, it has caused thousands of veterans to ask for clarification of its provisions. As a public service The Freeman presents an official Veterans Administration version of the bill in four parts, of which the following is the second in the series.

George M. Vadas, manager of Albany Regional Office of the Veterans Administration has stated chief concern among the thousands of veterans, their widows or their dependents in the Albany area, eligible to receive pensions under the law effective July 1, is the question of the amount of other income exempt by law.

Designed to benefit veterans, widows and orphans with the greatest need, the legislation passed by the last Congress and known as Public Law 86-211, provides that a single veteran's income must not exceed $1,800 or not more than $3,000 if he has dependents.

Cite Eight Categories

However, provision was made to exempt income in eight categories, as follows:

1. Payments of the six months death gratuity by the Service Departments.
2. Donations from public or private relief or welfare organizations.
3. Payments of compensation for service-connected disabilities or pension by the VA.
4. Government life insurance payments and payments of servicemen's indemnity.
5. Social Security lump sum death payments.
6. Payments to an individual under public or private retirement, annuity, endowment or similar plans equal to the amount he contributed thereto.
7. Proceeds of fire insurance policies.
8. In the case of widows or children of a deceased veteran, there are excluded amounts equal to the amounts paid for settlement of the veteran's just debts, the expenses of his last illness, and the expenses of the veteran's burial less the amount reimbursed by the VA.

To Consider Large Estates

Under the new law, pensions will not be paid to veterans who have sizeable estates, although the estate of his wife and children will not be considered. But those having moderately sizeable resources will not be eligible until they have used up some of their estate for living exxpenses. This is one of the "need" factors in determining eligibility.

It does not mean, however, that a veteran owning a farm or, for example, an apartment house would have to dispose of his property to become eligible, since the size and value of the property and other factors would be considered, VA officials said.

"The VA has made no attempt to provide an absolute yardstick for measuring the corpus of an estate," Vadas said. "Nor has the VA set a dollars and cents ceiling where the value of an estate will operate as a bar to pension entitlement.

"In each case consideration must be given to the type of property, the age of the claimant, his life expectancy, his state of health, the number of persons dependent on him for support, and his income from other sources.

Dwelling Excluded

"A veteran's dwelling is excluded from consideration as part of his estate. Each case will be judged individually on its merit."

The same rule regarding "corpus of estate" applies to widows and children. Where there is a widow and children the corpus of the widow's estate only will be considered. Where there is a child or children only, the corpus of the estate of the child or children will be considered.

Under the new law any material increase in the size of the pensioner's estate or additional income must be promptly reported to the VA and any change in the number of dependents, likewise, must be reported.

Most scholars of the Bible believe the Acts of the Apostles, fifth book of the New Testament, was written by Luke.
